EDMUND LOVELL ELLSWORTH

Edmund Lovell Ellsworth, the only son of Jonathan Ellsworth, was born July 1, 1819 near what is now the town of Paris, New York. His grandfather, Israel Ellsworth, was a Revolutionary War Veteran, having fought in several battles under George Washington. His mother was Sarah, also called Sally, Gallea, daughter of James Gallea and his wife Rebecca, both of whom were of Scotch descent. Sarah had a brother, William, who lived in Ellisburg, New York, and two sisters, Betsy, who married Abraham Holcomb, and Polly, who married Eliphus Lafferty. After the death of James Gallea (date unknown), his widow, Rebecca, married Hubbard Brown sometime during or prior to 1819.

Jonathan and Sarah's first child was a daughter, Charlotte, who was born in March 1817. When Charlotte was nearly two, her father, who was a carpenter by trade, went up the St. Lawrence River with his brother for a raft of lumber. The young wife, who was then expecting her second child, soon received a letter from her brother-in-law containing the sad news that Jonathan had died of yellow fever on the journey home, and further, that Jonathan had willed to him, his brother, his property, the bulk of which consisted of a tract of land upon which the town of Paris was later built. Although the records so far fail to show that Jonathan's brother produced any written proof of his claim, he did succeed in dispossessing Sarah of her property.

Shortly after her husband's death, Sarah Ellsworth bore her second child whom she named Edmund Lovell. While Edmund was still a baby his mother married Thomas Merritt, but was soon widowed a second time as Thomas was afflicted with dropsy and lived only a short time after their marriage. When Edmund was nine his mother married Abram Hendrickson, by whom she had five children, Abram, John, Sarah, Nancy and Emma. Because his stepfather was unkind to him, Edmund was not happy in this home. In 1839 or 40, he went down the Mississippi River. While on this trip he received a letter from his mother saying that she and her husband had recently joined the Mormon Church. Feeling that she was making a mistake, Edmund started home, gathering information about these people as he went. Instead of finding evidence against them, however, he was impressed by the good things he found in their favor. His sister Charlotte had married William Coggsell in 1839. In February 1841 Edmund, his sister and brother-in-law were baptized.

The late 19th century was a period of rapid change and growth in the United States. The industrial revolution had reached its peak, and the country was becoming increasingly urbanized. The population was growing rapidly, and the economy was booming. The government was expanding its role in society, and the courts were becoming more active in protecting individual rights. The late 19th century was a time of great progress and achievement, but it was also a time of great struggle and conflict.

The late 19th century was a time of great progress and achievement, but it was also a time of great struggle and conflict.

In September 1841, Edmund and the Coggsells left for Nauvoo to join the saints. Arriving there in October, he immediately went to work at the Temple quarry for the rest of the winter. William Coggsell, who was a furnace man, had difficulty in finding work, so moved to St. Louis to find employment. He later moved to Ottawa, Illinois, where he and a partner built a foundry. He sent for his wife and children, two sons and a daughter, and they lived from that time on in Ottawa. On July 10, 1842, Edmund married Elizabeth Young, the oldest daughter of Brigham Young and Merriam Works. For about a year he operated a saw-mill for William Law. In 1844 he was called by Joseph Smith to go on an expedition to the Rocky Mountains to explore the possibilities of a future settlement for the members of the church. Soon after his return from the West Edmund was asked to go to New York to campaign in the interest of Joseph Smith's candidacy for the Presidency of the United States. After the death of Joseph Smith he was called home by Brigham Young.

In February 1846, Edmund and his family crossed the Mississippi River, enroute to the mountains, but he was sent back to Nauvoo where he helped with the winter hay, took charge of President Young's cattle, and in addition, organized a dance band. The following spring he headed west with the pioneers toward the mountains, but he and several others remained at the Platte River for several weeks to operate a ferry. He and his family arrived in Salt Lake Valley on 12 October 1847.

During the next few years Edmund was a great aid to those early colonists in dealing with the Indians. Many times he had to fight them to maintain the peace. In December 1852 Mary Ann Dudley was married to Edmund by Brigham Young.

In March 1854, he was called to go on a mission to England where he worked most faithfully and diligently. It is recorded in the diary of one of his companions, A. Galloway, that he, Mr. Galloway, was awakened one night by Edmund who related that three times during that night he had dreamed that he was at home and that President Young had said, "We are thinking of having a company of saints cross the plains next year with hand carts. We would like you to take charge of the company. Will you do it?" Edmund said that he answered, "If you say so, I will". Mr. Galloway asked him to write it in his journal and see what came of it. Edmund did so and read it to Mr. Galloway and his wife. About six weeks later Edmund received a letter from Brigham Young, asking the same thing of him in the identical words that he had recorded in his journal. He left his mission in 1856 to return home to lead the first hand cart company across the plains, a scheme envisioned by Brigham Young to bring settlers to Utah when neither the people nor the church could raise the money for their transportation by other means. Although

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the study and the objectives of the research. It also provides a brief overview of the methodology used in the study. The second part of the paper presents the results of the study and discusses the implications of the findings. The third part of the paper concludes the study and provides some final thoughts on the research.

The results of the study show that there is a significant relationship between the variables studied. The findings suggest that the study has some practical implications for the field of research. The study also highlights some areas for further research and provides some suggestions for future studies.

Edmund was criticized by some for his seeming ruthlessness on this trip, he firmly believed that the Lord never demands more than his people can give and that if there were no wagons for the weak to ride in, their faith would carry them through. To some this was hard doctrine, but to Captain Ellsworth it seemed the only way to strengthen the will of those who crossed with him. At the end of the journey this first company was met by President Young, a brass band and hundreds of people in Emigration Canyon. They arrived in Salt Lake City, 26 September 1856. In this first company, and pushing the first handcart were two young girls from England who had given up homes, friends and families to travel to Utah to be with people of this new religion which they had embraced. These two girls, Mary Ann Jones and Mary Ann Bates, were to remain life-long friends, and both were married to Edmund Ellsworth with the consent of his family.

In 1857 he went into the lumber business with Joseph A. Young. He sold his home in the 13th Ward and bought property in the Southeastern part of the City. In 1860 he bought a saw mill in Mill Creek Canyon, which he later sold in 1866, and traded for a large tract of land in West Weber to which place he moved his families. While living here he supervised much rail-road and bridge building. In 1880 he moved the families of the two younger wives to Showlow, Arizona. On a trip through Mesa he was captivated by the beautiful fruit trees and alfalfa fields, so he decided to move these two families to this location, which he did in 1886. Here he lived for six years, returning to Salt Lake City in 1893 to attend the dedication of the Salt Lake Temple. He returned to Showlow where he died of heart failure in December 1893, after an illness of about six weeks, at the age of 74.

Edmund Lovell Ellsworth was truly a great pioneer, colonizer and organizer, and one in whom his many descendants can feel tremendous pride. His name appears frequently in the records of the church as one who was always ready to go wherever called to perform duties both rigorous and exacting. We who are descended from his lineage may be justly proud of the part he played in the up-building of the church and in the colonization of the West.

MARY ANN BATES

MARY ANN BATES was the daughter of Thomas Bates, a baker by trade, who was born in Pershore, Worcestershire, England about 1799. His first wife was Susannah Wheeler, by whom he had six children, Anne, Elizabeth Clara, Caroline Jeanette, Eliza and twins Angelina and Caroline Suzanna. In 1832 his wife Susannah and four daughters died, probably from an epidemic. In 1833 he married Elizabeth New who was born 23 February 1814 in Pershore, the daughter of William New, a weaver, and Elizabeth Collins New, a fair, good-looking woman, who joined the Mormon church in her later life, thus becoming the first generation of her line to accept the restored gospel. Thomas Bates and Elizabeth New Bates became the parents of Mary Ann, George, William, John and Emma, who married John Hill. Elizabeth New Bates died a few months after the birth of her last child, John, and Thomas married his third wife, Elizabeth Powell.

MARY ANN'S older half-sister was a dressmaker, and when Mary Ann copied her beautiful models for doll clothes her sister became angry and forbade the little girl to go to her shop again. Because her life at home, after her mother's death, was unhappy, she went to live with her Aunt Ann Passey in Birmingham. It was in her Aunt's home that she heard the gospel and was converted to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

EDMUND ELLSWORTH, who was on a mission to England at the time of Mary Ann's conversion, was directed by Brigham Young to take command of a company of saints who were emigrating from England to Utah. Mary Ann, with her Aunt's family, and Mary Ann Jones, a dear friend of hers, were members of this Company. In a list of names enrolled in the First Handcart Company is this entry: "Mary Ann Bates, age 21, dressmaker".

After a six-weeks journey across the water they landed in New York City, then proceeded on their way to Salt Lake City. Mary Ann Bates and her friend Mary Ann Jones were in the first hand cart company that entered Salt Lake City.

On October 10, 1856 the two Mary Anns became the wives of Edmund Ellsworth. Mary Ann Bates' first home was in Salt Lake City. Later she pioneered a home in West Weber, for she believed Salt Lake City was too large a place to raise a family.

In 1880 her husband decided to move the families of Mary Ann Bates and Mary Ann Jones to Arizona. They moved first to Showlow, where they remained for five years. Mary Ann soon found work for her never-idle hands. She discovered that the men were in need of clothes, so after finding a pattern among the things which she brought from Utah she began the difficult task of cutting and fitting suits of clothes, which soon equaled the best of tailored suits.

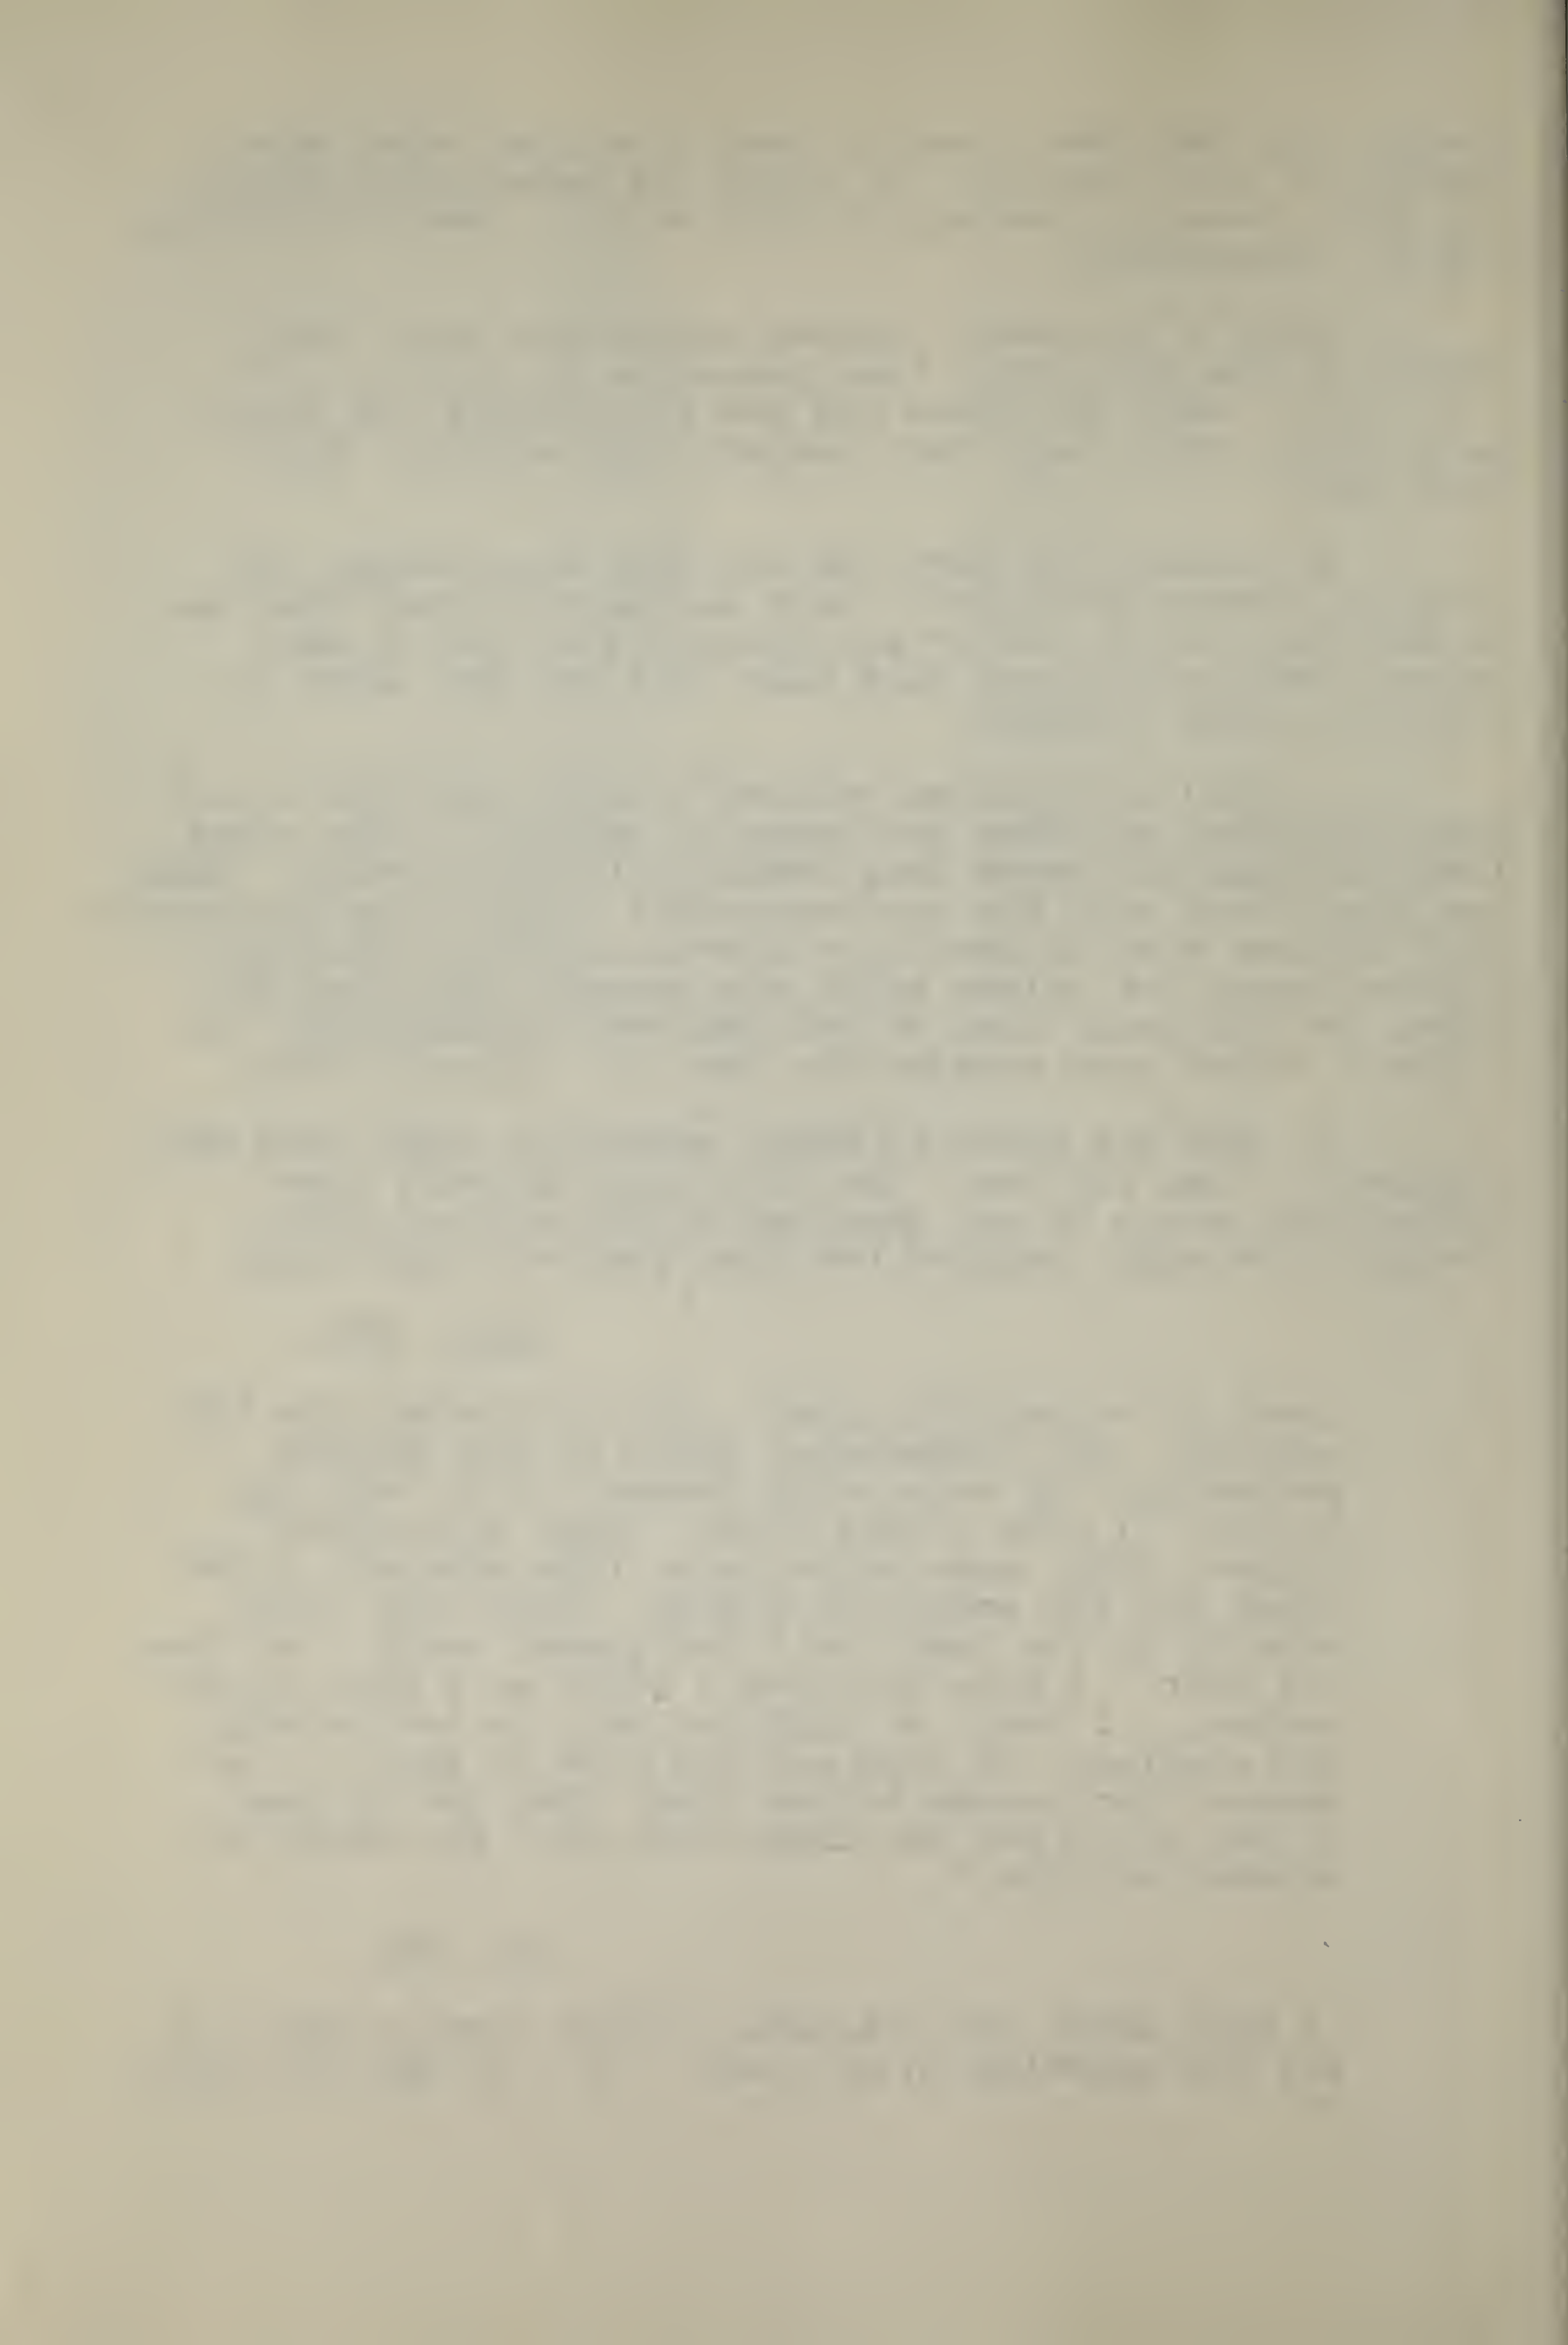

In 1886 she moved to Mesa, where her older boys had prepared a home for her. The following excerpts from letters she wrote to her daughter Julia, who was still living in Showlow, tell of her home and her activities.

"Mesa is a beautiful place, if I can stand the hot weather. The thermometer stood at 100 degrees yesterday. My room being lumber, it is very hot in it... I have a nice place. Lots of peaches, apples, figs, some pears, some fine almonds, a few plums and any amount of grapes. There are vines running by the door, so I can almost reach them from the door. I have got such a place as I have always wanted... I don't do anything only in the morning and evening. My cows are too poor to sell. I am ashamed for anyone to see them, they are so poor. If you could see the large cows here you would be ashamed of mine."

May 1890

"I have about 100 chickens to take care of and I do all the watering on my place. If I do say it I have got the prettiest place yet. My flowers show off very good this year. We have lots of water so far. I do a man's work outside. I have my roses all cared for and lots of trees pruned and lots more to do... I do not know how long I will be able to work out doors, but I expect to work as long as I am able.

"I have to close my business (a bakery which she operated for some time in Mesa) for a month to put down fruit. I am late with my jelly but I believe I can still make it. I feel it is hard on me at the bakery, but the little girls have to be cared for, so I expect I will have to go back again."

November 1892

"Mesa is a small town at present but I feel it won't be very long before it will grow to be a large place, for so many people are buying homes and ranches here. Land is jumping up every day. I don't know when it will stop."

In 1912 she made her first trip back to Utah where she visited her old home towns, Salt Lake City and West Weber, and renewed old friendships and made new acquaintances.

She was knitting for the soldiers when she was stricken with paralysis in 1917. She always had a strong testimony of the gospel, believing always in its divinity. She was the mother of five sons and eight daughters. She died the 24th of April in Mesa, where she was buried. She was always kind, generous and sympathetic. Her numerous descendents have many reasons to be proud of her and to revere her memory.

Letter from Mary Ann Bates Ellsworth to her daughter, Julia West, 1886.

Mesa Looking on he was he went look like Frank is do horse and hot so very & I will say
Dear Julia & Eva.
I hope these few lines will find you ^{and} all the folks well this leaves us all well and well I heard with my new home we got in on 13 days after we left home we made good time for us but bad for our stock They gave out and we left them with the boys and your father buying and the girls drove into Mesa Sunday Night and it was so late when we got in we could not send our right hand. The buggy and team got into the mud and we had to jump into the water & the folks had been watering and we not knowing when to go got stuck in the mud we drove around untill 11 o'clock and then found a man that knew George he told us were to go so we finally got there very tired and hungry we found them all to bed well Julia the road was bad but not so bad as I expected to find it the Reno was not half so bad but bad enough Hans had no trouble in taking his load over the bad road only once on the Reno and if his horses had stuck to the pulling he would had no trouble then he took out the flour feeding and grain then he came along all right after he got one one bad place the buggy came through all right not a thing wrong about it and Willie and a young lady went riding Sunday so did ~~the~~ Sarah and George this is a beautiful place if I can stand the hot weather I will be pleased with the country The thermometer stood 100 degrees but my room being lumber it is very hot in it

The Boys got in with the Stock in 3 days after we left them but I had to leave Lucan she had a calf and was to make to bank so I left ^{her} 60 Miles away Annie Joleb has gone to Utah for her health and word came in last week one of Sarahs Brothers was killed by Indians so you can guess how she feels she cries more than she used to I never saw such an unhappy girl but you would pity ^{her} if you knew her condition but she is real comfortable in her house and all the Appricots she can use they are ripe plums are ripe Potatoes are large Beets are large Peas beans are plenty and dont it seem like to eat them The men are cutting Wheat and Lucan I have a nice place lots of Peaches Apples figs some pears some pears Almonds a few plums and any amount of grapes so I can almost reach them from the door. I have got such a place I always wanted if I can stand the hot weather all the people stand it better than I do I don't do any thing only in the morning and evening I have to have got my corns to go to sell and if you could see the large corns here you would be ashamed of mine I am ashamed for any one to see them they are so big on the road they get so tired to eat they have got up after they layed down at night untill the boys got them up next morning to get them to eat a little and ardy any feed for cows but plenty for them here they would go off and get it well Julia I must quit and save litty a to tell you next time love to the family and have salt and Core I hope you are happy try to be and you certainly will with such a good woman at your head write soon tell Julia that to write to me good bye & I love

The first of these is the fact that the system of the world is not a simple one but a complex one. It is a system of many parts, each of which is itself a system of many parts. This makes the study of the world a very difficult task.

The second of these is the fact that the system of the world is not a static one but a dynamic one. It is a system of many parts, each of which is itself a system of many parts. This makes the study of the world a very difficult task.

The third of these is the fact that the system of the world is not a uniform one but a varied one. It is a system of many parts, each of which is itself a system of many parts. This makes the study of the world a very difficult task.

HANS HANSEN

- II. LORETTA ELLSWORTH was born 12 April 1868 in West Weber, Utah. After the family moved to Showlow, she met and married Hans Hansen, Jr., the son of Hans Hansen and Metta Katrina Andersen. He was born 24 August 1862 in Washington, Utah. They were married 21 October 1885. They made their first home in Showlow, Arizona. Later they moved to Lakeside where they homesteaded 160 acres of timber land, which they cleared for farm land. "Aunt Retta", as she was called by everyone who knew her, was midwife, doctor and nurse in her community. When doctors came into her town, she worked and studied with them, and was greatly respected by them. She brought hundreds of babies into the world, never refusing a call to help take care of the sick, many times sacrificing her own health and comfort. She and Hans raised five daughters in their Lakeside home. She died 29 March 1940 in Lakeside, Ariz.
